Day Two Construction Continues at the Extreme Makeover: Home Edition Site

Classic Homes of Maryland and crews of volunteers work 24/7

Rockville, Md. – June 24, 2008 – The sun rose on Day Two of construction to illuminate a firm foundation and the beginnings of the house's frame. In the 24 hours since demolition began, Classic Homes of Maryland and their volunteers have leveled the lot, built a foundation, and raised the frame. Working well after the sun sets, walls and windows will be delivered, doors will be installed and the house will be ready for the "rough in" such as HVAC, electrical and plumbing.

"Things are coming along nicely, according to schedule. We're very proud of our crews of workers and volunteers who are working around the clock to make this seemingly impossible deadline," says Dinesh Jain, Vice-President and Co-Founder of Classic Homes of Maryland.

In order to expedite a normally four-month process, teams are working 24/7 to make sure every hour is a productive one. Due to the filming set lighting and the construction site lighting, it's always daylight at the Poolesville location. Crews will continue to work throughout the day and night to meet their next 24 hour goals for Day Three, which includes inspections, roofing, siding, insulation, drywall and painting, just to name a few.
